

White Paper: Leading Transformation Change for Ourselves and our Customers with Industry 4.0 Applications

By: Andy Selvy - February 22, 2022

Industry 4.0 represents the latest industry transformation, a shift where technology is, for the first time, allowing data to be captured and processed in real time proximate both to where it is generated and where it is needed.

Watlow® is currently piloting and implementing several programs to leverage these technologies in order to automate anticipating issues earlier and to speed up implementation of solutions. Growing our experience with industry 4.0 not only increases the efficiency and profitability of our production, but also provides us the experience and critical knowledgeable to deliver leadership and assistance to our customers in implementing similar technologies and protocols in order to realize similar benefits.
